	This module is available to students registered for the DL MSc and PGDip in Public Health. It is recommended for students studying the MSc in Public Health: General stream and the Environment and Health and Health Promotion streams. The module is also open to students on the DL PGDip/MSc Clinical Trials, Epidemiology and Global Health Policy programmes. Alternatively, it can also be taken as an individual module.
Module Description	This module provides students with an overview of historical issues relating to public health issues and services.
Duration	Studies for distance learning modules begin in early October. At this time, module materials will be made available on Moodle and the module textbook will be made available once fees have been paid. Students may start their studies at any time from the beginning of October and work through the material until the start of the June examinations. Students must adhere to other earlier assessment submission deadlines.
Last Revised (e.g. year changes approved)	05/2020

Module Aim and Intended Learning Outcomes

Overall aim of the module

The overall module aim is to:

- Enable students to employ historical perspectives in the fields of public health and health services.

Module Intended Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of the module a student will be able to:

1. Evaluate the historical dimensions of ongoing public health issues;
2. Understand the historical context of public health and health services, in both the advanced industrial economies and the global South;
3. Recognize the nature of historical debate and the contested status of historical claims; and
4. Analyse original documents so as to be able to assess a significant historical question.

Indicative Syllabus

Session Content

The module is expected to cover the following topics:

- Public health in the industrialising West in the 19th century, with a particular focus on urban environment and sanitation, on sexual health, and on the development of public health law;
- The beginnings of tropical medicine in the context of empire, including the new science of malaria and approaches to its control;
- The emergence of the medical profession, and the making of 20th century health systems within Western welfare states;
- The coming of international health concerns in the post-colonial era, and the transition to global health, viewed through a study of international health organisations, eradication programmes and the primary health care movement;
- Public health in the 20th century world, including the new public health focus of health promotion and chronic diseases, with a focus on themes of sexual health and substance use.

Teaching and Learning

Notional Learning Hours

Type of Learning Time	Number of Hours	Expressed as Percentage (%)
Directed self-study	120	80
Self-directed learning	0	0
Assessment, review and revision	30	20
Total	150	100

Teaching and Learning Strategy

Learning is via directed self-study. A guide to studying the module is provided, together with access to a range of study resources, discussion forums and collaborate sessions. The textbook that supports this module provides a detailed set of learning objectives at the start of each chapter, and also offers focused reading and various learning activities. Students are strongly encouraged to participate in the module-specific discussions and collaborate sessions to obtain tutor support, and to make use of the LSHTM on-line library resources. Written feedback is provided on submitted assignments.

There will be a number of Collaborate sessions, including an introduction to the module, a discussion of the assignment and briefing for exam revision. Students are strongly encouraged to participate in the module-specific discussions and real-time tutorials available on Moodle to obtain tutor support, and to make use of LSHTM online library resources.

Assessment

Assessment Strategy

Formal assessment of this module includes a two-hour 15 minute unseen written examination (70%) and an assessed assignment (30%). Details of the maximum word limit permitted and what to include in the word count are provided in the assignment instruction document. Students are required to keep within the word limit detailed in the Assignment Instructions.

Summative assessment

Assessment Type	Assessment Length	Weighting (%)	Intended Module Learning Outcomes Tested
Assessed Assignment	Please see the Assignment Instructions for details.	30	All
Exam	2 hours and 15 minutes	70	All

Assignments for this module can be submitted only once annually, no later than 31 March and must be submitted via the online Assignment Management System.

Unseen written examinations for DL modules are held once a year, in June (including resits). Examinations are normally taken in a student’s country of residence, in one of over 650 examination centres worldwide (arranged mainly through Ministries of Education or the British Council). A list of examination centres can be found at <https://london.ac.uk/current-students/examinations/examination-centres>.

A local fee will be payable direct to the examination centre. This fee is in addition to the programme/module fee and is set by, and paid directly to, the individual examination centres. The level of local examination centre fees varies across the world and neither the University of London nor the LSHTM have any control over the fee amount.

Resitting assessment

Resits will accord with the LSHTM’s Resits Policy.

The Resit assessment will be the same assessment type as the first attempt (see previous table).

Resources

The following materials are provided to students after registration for this module once a year in September/October:

- A brief guide to studying the module;
- The textbook Public Health in History by Virginia Berridge, Martin Gorsky and Alex Mold;
- A reading list including details of both required and optional reading and links to selected papers;
- A list of useful websites;
- Access to the LSHTM Virtual Learning Environment (VLE) - Moodle, where students can access a range of materials, including some of the materials listed above; participate in module-specific discussion forums and Collaborate sessions and access the LSHTM online library resources.

Please note the textbook will be made available in e-format or hard copy. All other materials may be accessed via the LSHTM VLE – Moodle.

Teaching for Disabilities and Learning Differences

The module-specific site on Moodle provides students with access to the majority of the module learning materials, including a study guide and online reading list (detailing both essential and recommended readings), and additional resources including supplementary exercises and optional lecture recordings. In some cases, module materials include a text book that is made available to students in either hard copy or e-format. All materials posted up on Moodle areas, including computer-based sessions, have been made accessible where possible. The LSHTM Moodle has been made accessible to the widest possible audience, using a VLE that allows for up to 300% zoom, permits navigation via keyboard and use of speech recognition software, and that allows listening through a screen reader. Please contact the University of London through the “Ask a question” resource on the Student Portal if you require any documents in an alternative format.
