2. Programme Aims & Learning Outcomes

Educational aims of the programme

The aim of the programme – consistent with the LSHTM's mission to improve health and health equity worldwide – is to provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary to improve the health of populations, communities and particular groups within them. The focus is mainly on high-and middle-income countries. The emphasis is on the use, development and critical evaluation of conceptual models, evidence and methods of analysis, and on effective interventions and policies at local, national and international levels.

Programme Learning Outcomes

By the end of the programme, students will be expected to achieve the following learning outcomes – drawing on material taught across different elements and assessed in a variety of ways.

Core:

- i) Demonstrate an understanding of the concepts, principles and practices of public health.
- ii) Demonstrate ability to apply knowledge of the core disciplines of public health (epidemiology, statistics, and social research) to real-world health problems.
- iii) Develop competence in critically evaluating and communicating research evidence.
- iv) Demonstrate an understanding of the relationship between research evidence and policy/practice.
- v) Develop skills to produce (design, plan, conduct) a substantive piece of original work that contributes to public health.

Teaching and Learning Strategy

The programme is taught, through a variety of teaching methods including: lectures, small group seminars, practical, and groupwork with peers. All elements of the programme have specific learning objectives, with content designed to help students achieve these outcomes. Students are expected to learn through both directed and self-directed study.

Assessment Strategy

Students are assessed through (1) individual module assessments (which may be an essay or other written assignment, short written tests, a groupwork report or presentation, or other method) and (2) an independent project report.

These tasks are designed to assess, via the most appropriate method, whether learning objectives have been met.

Contact Time

Student contact time refers to the tutor-mediated time allocated to teaching, provision of guidance and feedback to students. This time includes activities that take place in face-to-face contexts such as on-campus lectures, seminars, demonstrations, tutorials, supervised laboratory workshops, practical classes, project supervision and external fieldwork or visits, as well as where tutors are available for one-to-one discussions and interaction by email. Module contact time will be defined in the individual module specifications and provided to students at the start of their programme.

This definition is based on the one provided by the Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education (QAA) Explaining contact hours (2011). Student contact time, together with time allocated for independent study and assessment, determines the total student study hours for a module or programme. Although there are separate hours allocated for each of these activities, they should always be clearly linked together to support effective learning.

The London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine (LSHTM) defines high quality contact time as structured, focused, purposeful and interactive.

4: Entry Requirements

Criteria for admission

The normal minimum entry requirements for the MSc Public Health are:

- An upper second class honours degree (2:1) from a UK university, or an overseas qualification of an equivalent standard.
- Work experience: preference will be given to applicants with relevant work experience, this includes both paid and voluntary work, internships etc.
- Additional requirement: applicants for the MSc Public Health (all streams) will need to provide some evidence of ability in mathematics, post-16 year education. This could include:
 - "A" level or a higher school certificate,
 - a module within an undergraduate degree (such as quantitative methods, epidemiology or statistics)
 - o statistics studied as part of a general research methods course.

Any student who does not meet the minimum academic entry requirement above but who has significant relevant professional experience may still be eligible for admission.

English language entry requirements

Band B

It is essential that all students have a good command of the English language to benefit from their studies at the LSHTM.

As part of the application process, applicants are required to demonstrate how they meet the LSHTM's minimum English language requirements. This is particularly important for applicants requiring a Student visa, as the UK Home Office dictates that every student from outside the UK and European Union (EU) must show evidence of a minimum level of English language ability (called CEFR1 B2 level), in order for a Student visa to be issued for entry to the UK.

Additionally, the LSHTM asks applicants to have minimum English language proficiency levels that are necessary for our academic programmes. These levels are higher than the CEFR B2 minimum level and also apply to EU applicants, although these will not normally require a Student visa.

The academic English language requirements for each of the LSHTM's programmes are categorised into one of three profiles A, B or C. For information on these three profiles, please refer to the LSHTM English Language Requirement Policy:
